

Title: Practice Exercises for Present Perfect Continuous Tense with Wh- Questions

I. Introduction:

In this exercise, we will practice forming Wh- questions in the Present Perfect Continuous tense. This exercise aims to reinforce understanding and usage of this tense in various contexts.

II. Practice Exercise:

A. Forming Wh- Questions:

Interrogative Pronouns:

- Who, What, When, Where, Why, Which, Whose, Whom

Formation of Questions:

- Wh- Question Word + has/have + subject + been + present participle (-ing form of the verb)

B. Examples:

Who has been working?
What have you been studying?
When has she been traveling?
Where have they been living?
Why have you been waiting?
Which project has he been working on?
Whose car have they been repairing?
Whom have you been helping?

C. Additional Practice Sentences:

Who has been cooking dinner?
What have they been discussing?
When has he been practicing guitar?
Where have you been hiding?
Why has she been crying?
Which book has he been reading?
Whose phone have they been using?
Whom have you been calling?

III. Instructions:

Form Wh- questions based on the given prompts.

Pay attention to the subject-verb agreement and the correct placement of the helping verbs "has" or "have".

Use the Present Perfect Continuous tense to frame the questions.

Try to create questions that elicit specific information related to ongoing actions or situations.

IV. Conclusion:

Practicing Wh- questions in the Present Perfect Continuous tense enhances proficiency in forming interrogative sentences and reinforces understanding of this grammatical structure. Regular practice is key to mastering the nuances of English grammar and communication.